Course Studio

Course Studio is where a creator builds one course. It opens from a setup wizard, then moves into the course workspace.

1. Setup wizard. CR-STU-004 "How will you create this course?" is the new entry screen with three cards: Create Solo (goes to the Curriculum Builder), Create with Co-Creators (goes to CR-COL-002) and Open to Collaboration (goes to CR-COL-006). It replaces the old screen.

2. Course workspace. Left nav: Overview, Design, Build, Experience, Prepare, Validate and Publish (both gated), then Manage with Collaborators and Course Settings.

3. Curriculum Builder (CR-STU-020). Designed as separate boards for the solo, team, open and co-creator states, including adding a lesson straight into the editor, DLP rules, and moving a lesson or chapter.

4. Message pop-ups and AI token rows sit on the same page, each as its own board.

Manage Published Course

This is what a creator uses after the course is live. Start at the hub, CR-COURSE-MGT-001, which has eight cards: Publishing & Visibility, Pricing & Access, Course Updates & Versions, Learner Access & Enrollment, Validation History, Archive & Removal, Insights & Engagement (CR-COURSE-MGT-009 and 009A to F) and the new Course Credits & Visibility.

Multiple creators on the learner Course Overview

* CR-LEARN-CREATORS-2 shows a Lead Creator and one Co-Creator: avatars and names in the byline, plus a "Meet the creators" section with one card per creator, each showing what they contributed.

* CR-LEARN-CREATORS-5 shows five creators: three names and "2 others" in the byline, four cards, and a View all button.

* CR-LEARN-CREATORS-PANEL is the "Course creators" panel with every credited creator.

* CR-COURSE-CREDITS is where the Lead Creator controls who is shown. CR-COURSE-CREDITS-ASK asks a contributor to be credited.

Credit rules: Lead Creator and Co-Creators are shown by default. Contributors and reviewers appear only if they agree. Pending invitations, applicants and revenue shares are never shown.

The Creator Preview screens (amber CREATOR PREVIEW tag) simulate the learner view. The real learner app screens are designed separately.
